Airline officials rely on WEATHERBANK, INC. to give them advanced notice of any impending weather event that would put their passengers or crews in danger, and to determine whether or not to cancel their flights. These operating decisions can have tremendous financial impacts if not made accurately and timely.

 Continental Airlines

We rely on WEATHERBANK's 24/7 meteorology team because we can trust them to keep us forewarned of any weather impacts. As a result of their services, we make better operational decisions.

When a severe, winter storm was projected to hit our area a few years ago, it was WEATHERBANK's meteorologists that predicted the storm's affects would not be as crippling in our immediate area despite the claims by local forecasters. WEATHERBANK maintained their assurance in their forecast, while the local forecasters wavered in their storm track projections, even up to the hour before it was to arrive. WEATHERBANK was right and we were able to continue operating on schedule, while our competitors had closed down. The decision to choose WEATHERBANK, INC. has helped us to maintain customer satisfaction and improve our bottom line.
